

Angelika Becker has worked in the Economics Department of the German Chemical Industry Association (VCI) since 1992. She has many years of experience with official statistics in the field of economic statistics and the associated classifications.

Her work focuses on short-term and structural statistics as well as production and foreign trade statistics. In this field, she also works as a statistics expert for the European Chemical Industry Council (CEPIC).

Angelika Becker holds a master's degree in business informatics from the Technical University of Merseburg. Her areas of responsibility include statistical topics as well as bureaucracy reduction and better regulation.