

Audronė Jakaitienė is a Professor and Chief Researcher at Vilnius University. Prior to this, she held a position as Senior Economist at the Bank of Lithuania.

She has also worked as Senior Expert (Economist) for the European Central Bank. Dr Jakaitienė is a Board member of the Lithuanian Statistical Society; Lithuania's representative at the International Biometric Society, as well as a member of the Lithuanian Mathematical Society and International Epidemiology Association.

She conducts research in econometrics, biostatistics and statistics of education. Audronė Jakaitienė was conferred her Bachelor, Master in applied Mathematics from Vytautas Magnus University and Ph.D. in Informatics from the Vytautas Magnus University and Institute of Mathematics and Informatics (joined program).