2024 benchmark revision of national accounts: Overviews on national communication dates and channels

Disclaimer: The overviews are mainly based on information collected from national compliers in March-April 2024. The information should be considered as indicative as it may be updated and/or complemented as the implementation of the benchmark revision progresses.

The "Practical guidelines for revising ESA 2010 data" stress that it is important to accompany benchmark revisions with good communication and metadata. National compliers were therefore asked to provide information on different types of national communication and links to additional information that are presented below.

2024 benchmark revision of national accounts: Overviews on national release dates by domain and dataset

Disclaimer: The overviews are mainly based on information collected from national compilers in March-April 2024. The information should be considered as indicative as it may be updated and/or complemented as the implementation of the benchmark revision progresses.

In line with legal transmission requirements for national accounts data specified in the amended ESA 2010 transmission programme, most countries will implement the benchmark revision in autumn 2024, generally starting with annual main aggregates. Data transmissions to Eurostat will generally respect the deadlines set for different datasets. The overviews below inform on national publication dates, but not all datasets are (fully) published nationally. Eurostat will apply its usual data processing, validation and publication routines, which vary for different datasets. Data are progressively incorporated in European estimates and published in accordance with Eurostat's release calendar.
