

In the context of the survey on internet use within households , internet access refers to the possibility for anyone in a household to access the internet from home. It does not mean 'connectivity', i.e. whether connections can be made in the household's area or street.

The term internet access for enterprises means having an external connection from the enterprise to the internet through an 'internet service provider' (ISP).

Related concepts

- Broadband
- Dial-up
- Digital divide
- Internet use

Statistical data

- Information society