

Glossary:Gross national electricity consumption

Statistics Explained

Gross national electricity consumption includes the total gross national electricity generation from all fuels (including auto-production), plus electricity imports, minus exports. Auto-production is defined as a natural or legal person generating electricity essentially for his/her own use. Gross electricity generation is measured at the outlet of the main transformers, i.e. it includes consumption in the plant auxiliaries and in transformers.

Related concepts

- Gross electricity generation

Statistical data

- Electricity production, consumption and market overview