

The International Ocean Institute (IOI) runs training, and implements capacity building and development on oceans issues at several levels. IOI's work is aimed at different stakeholders, including policy makers, managers and implementers. IOI writes publications and information for dissemination and to increase outreach. The IOI runs training programmes, offers post graduate degrees, writes publications and occasional papers, gives key note speeches and holds seminars and presentations in the areas of Ocean Governance, Capacity Development and Fisheries Management. Examples of specific actions include the IOI Training Programme on Regional Ocean Governance for the Mediterranean, Black, Baltic & Caspian Seas; a Postgraduate (MA) Degree on Ocean Governance, co-offered with Faculty of Law at the University of Malta; and publications, such as the World Ocean Review publication "The Future of Fish – The Fisheries of the Future".
