

Biography – Aleš Bourek

Aleš Bourek, MD, PhD. works as CEO of the Masaryk University Center for Healthcare Quality (www.med.muni.cz/cekz). He explores computer linguistics for medical information management. For 28 years he mentors students of the Masaryk University and abroad in information and communication use (skills, attitudes, benefits, limitations, risks and technologies) for professional needs.

He is an active gynecologist and the head of L'ART Center for Assisted Reproduction (www.ivf.cz). He worked for DG SANCO, Council of Europe, WHO, World Bank and EFQM and collaborates with people and institutions interested in quality and accountability improvement in healthcare and healthcare education.

He is a member of editorial boards of several journals, Vice-President of the European Society for Quality in Healthcare (www.esqh.net), board member of CEESTAHC (www.ceestahc.org) and European Health Futures Forum (www.ehff.org). He enjoys philosophy, skiing, hiking, spending time with family and friends and hosting people when they come to Czech Republic.