2.3 Link with AP/NPAA / EP/ SAA

2008 Accession Partnership document states that “Pursue measures to implement current legislation relating to women’s rights and against all forms of violence against women, including crimes committed in the name of honor. Ensure specialized training for judges and prosecutors, law enforcement agencies, municipalities and other responsible institutions and strengthen efforts to establish shelters for women at risk of violence in all larger municipalities, in line with current legislation.”

2008 NPAA includes priority concerning to combat violence against women. According to the 2008 NPAA;

- In accordance with the current legislation, special trainings of judges and prosecutors, law enforcement bodies, municipalities and other relevant institutions regarding the women rights will continue.
- The works on establishing shelters for women under the threat of violence in the municipalities will continue. Informative and raising awareness trainings on combating violence against women will be provided to the law enforcement officers and employees working in the health sector.
- The activities to determine the reasons and results of violence against women will be conducted.
- Spreading the applications of micro credit in various provinces to other provinces in order to increase the participation of women to labour force will be ensured.
- Measures on the prevention of violence against women will intensively be monitored and trainings and raising awareness activities will be supported. Comprehensive and broad campaigns will be organized in order to raise awareness of the public about combating violence against women and the participation of all sections of the society will be ensured.
- The report of the Parliament’s Investigative Commission established in order to determine the measures necessary to be taken through investigating reasons of the honour killings and violence against women and children has been endorsed by our Government. Within the framework of the Prime Ministry Circular No. 2006/17, report recommendation on combating violence against women and honor killings will be implemented.

2.4 Link with MIPD

MIPD 2009-2011 under Component I – Transition Assistance and Institution Building while addressing the Copenhagen political criteria by supporting those institutions directly concerned by political reforms, highlights the need for training on combating against domestic violence for the law enforcement services.

2.5 Link with National Development Plan (where applicable)
Gender equality has been underlined in the PNDP as a part of “The second dimension: development of human resources and increasing employment” of “Turkey’s Development Strategy”, with emphasis on “creating equal opportunities for employment”.

The Ninth Development Plan (2007-2013) also holds a provision to increase public awareness in order to prevent violence against women. However, it does not refer to the need to provide assistance for victims.

2.6 Link with national/sectoral investment plans (where applicable)

The National Action Plan for Combating against Domestic Violence against Women 2007-2010, prepared by the Prime Ministry Directorate General of the Status of Women under an EU funded project, is composed of six priority areas focusing on legislative arrangements, awareness and mentality change, enhancement of women’s socio-economic status, protection services, recovery and rehabilitation services and inter-sectoral cooperation.

3. Description of project

3.1 Background and justification:

Violence against women (VAW) is a violation of human rights rooted in inequality between women and men and it is widespread in Turkey. According to the results of the recent “National Research on Domestic Violence against Women in Turkey” (2008), 2 out of 5 women have been exposed to physical violence by their husbands or partners at least once in their lifetime. There is significant variation between regions with regards to experiencing physical violence, which is the highest with 53 percent in the Northern Anatolia and lowest in Western Marmara with 25 percent. These figures show the scale of the problem and need for immediate action.

The main problems, which are also listed in 2008 and 2009 Regular Progress Reports in the context of violence/domestic violence against women, are as follows:

- Domestic violence, honour killings, and early and forced marriages are still a serious problem.
- Number of reported honour killings is 220 and there is an increase compared to 2006.
- There is still need for reliable data.
- Women are reportedly reluctant to have recourse to the police or the courts due to lack of confidence in provision of effective protection.
- The Law on Municipalities, which provides for the establishment of shelters for women in metropolitan municipalities and in municipalities with a population of 50 thousand or more, and in particular the provisions on shelters, are not yet fully implemented and the number of shelters remains lower than provided for under that law.
- Information about the scope or an assessment of the impact of awareness-raising campaigns is necessary.
- The report on national research on domestic violence against women found out that only 4% of victims had sought help from the police and a mere 1% refuge in State run shelters.
- The local coordination boards envisaged in the circular from MoI have not been established as provided. There is reportedly lack of awareness among law enforcement forces and public administrations of the MoI’s circular on violence against women and children.

- There is a need for further training and awareness raising on women’s rights and gender equality, for both men and women.

Violence against women has become part of the public agenda in Turkey since mid-1980s. Since 1990s some important legislative changes have been carried out such as:

- Law on the Protection of the Family (1998) which was amended in 2007,
- Law on Family Courts (2001), changes in the Civil Law (2001)
- the Penal Code (2005), amendments of the Constitution (article 10 on equality, article 41 on family, etc),
- Child Protection Law (2007),
- Municipalities Law (2004) which requires all municipalities with a population over 50,000 and all metropolitan municipalities to establish shelters for women subject to violence, Procedural Law on Penalty (2004).

Besides, some institutional developments have been achieved:

- “National VAW Monitoring Committee” paved the way to the “Investigation Commission for determining the causes of violence against women and children/honour crimes” which was established under the National Assembly in 2005.
- Parliamentary Report of the Committee led to the Prime Ministry Circular (No. 2006/17) on “Measures to Prevent Violent Acts against Women and Children, and Crimes in the Name of Honour and Custom” which was published in the Official Gazette in July 2006. The circular addresses the recommendations voiced in the Parliamentary Report and appoints the Directorate General of Women’s Status and the Directorate General of Social Services and Child Protection and as coordinator institutions for the implementation of the recommendations. Implementation is being monitored by quarterly activity reports of Local Coordination Committees at the provinces.
- The Ministry of Interior communicated a circular in 2007 (No. 2007/8) to all governorates in order to ensure effective and rapid enforcement of the duties and functions. The Rapid Task Forces were established in provinces in accordance with the Circular of the Ministry of Interior.

Within these developments the EU has assisted Turkey in the formulation of a national action plan and communication strategy for both gender equality policy implementation and for combating violence against women; funded a nation-wide research to understand the causes and consequences of violence against women; supported events towards increased sensitivity among public officials, development of training programs and training of trainers for social workers, health personnel, and law enforcement officials, police, media professionals and NGOs providing services to victims; contributed to the formulation of physical, human and administrative infrastructure needed for having efficiently operating shelters at pilot basis to serve as a model to municipalities with a population greater than 50,000 in establishing their own shelters for women and children; supported development of service delivery models and training programmes, and preparation of the forms for data collection as part of the national database and information system.

Significant awareness raising campaigns are also being conducted since early 2000 nds in collaboration with public and private sector, media organizations, civil society organizations and local administrations. Even though these campaigns are designed to create awareness in the society to stop violence against women, information on their long-term effects are not available. In addition, these campaigns are conducted in several provinces and should be extended to the rest of the country addressing specific needs of each province.
In the light of the developments mentioned above, combating against all forms of violence but particularly violence against women is an important awareness area for law enforcement personnel, which confront this kind of incidents at first hand. Gendarmerie General Command has great willingness to carry out activities on its part which might help to combat domestic violence issues particularly violence against women and honor killings—murder by immediate family members of women suspected of being unchaste—the most brutal type of gender based violence. It is also important to encourage vulnerable persons particularly women who are subjected to violence not to hesitate to apply to Gendarmerie stations.

The main beneficiary of the proposed project, Gendarmerie General Command, though colored with military status, is subordinated to Ministry of Interior in matters related to the performance of the safety and public order duties.

In each province of Turkey, there is a Province Gendarmerie Command, subdivided in several District Gendarmerie Commands. District Gendarmerie Commands has also several stations depending on the size and need of the responsibility area. Thus, Gendarmerie General Command’s responsibility area covers %92 of all Turkish territory. In this regard, one of the greatest advantages of the proposed project will be the large area under Gendarmerie responsibility that the project effects can easily reach.

Another significant impact of the proposed project will be the awareness of the people living in the rural areas, mostly suffer from lack of education opportunities in comparison to big cities. Awareness campaigns are also limited in those areas. Taking advantage of the updated researches carried out on domestic violence issues particularly against women, pilot provinces to be chosen within the proposed project will help us to reach even the most remote and isolated areas where Gendarmerie forces already exist.

With regard to legal base, documents such as Law No: 4320 on the Protection of the Family and relating Circulars (2006/17, 2007/6) give some duties to law enforcement agencies i.e. including Gendarmerie. In this line, this proposed project will also contribute to the better implementation of all those legislation. It will also help increase the coordination under Gendarmerie responsibility area between related line ministries and institutions taking part in combating violence against domestic violence particularly against women.

With the proposed project, the establishment of a data base with regard to domestic violence incidents committed under responsibility area of Gendarmerie General Command is also envisaged. Regarding the fact that there is no specific data base concerning rural areas on domestic violence incidents (particularly against women), it is hard to predict the real picture of domestic violence and honor killings all over the country. The establishment of such a specific data base will clear the uncertainties about the issue and also clear the way to be able to take more appropriate measures in order to combat against domestic violence.

At the end of the project, the achieved results are envisaged as follows:
- Training of Gendarmerie personnel as many as possible but at least 2000 Gendarmerie personnel trained on the domestic violence issues throughout territorial organization of Gendarmerie General Command which means %92 of all Turkish territory.

- Enhancing the sustainability of human rights trainer pools (a pool achieved by TR 0601.03- Training of Gendarmerie Officers on European Human Rights Standards Twinning Project) with a greater awareness on domestic violence issues,

- Raising awareness of the people by using Gendarmerie units even exist in the most remote and isolated areas of the country and making long-term positive changes possible.

- Increased cooperation between Gendarmerie personnel and related institutions/ministries’ personnel on duty in their respective responsibility areas for awareness raising in order to provide efficient protection services to women subjected to domestic violence.

In order to achieve these results, Gendarmerie General Command as the main beneficiary will cooperate with other governmental institutions which deal with issues regarding violence against women and make use of their comprehensive experience through the each phase of the Proposed Project. In this regard, a preliminary meeting was held during the very first phase of preparation and related ministries/institutions were invited to benefit from their experience and if they are to involve the project. Other than the Turkish National Police (TNP) and the Ministry of Health, institutions providing protection and support services to victims of violence agreed to take part in the project, whereas the NGOs are still to be decided.

These institutions/ministries are as follows:

Prime Ministry the Directorate General of Women’s Status (KSGM) has the overall mandate to coordinate all gender related activities of different governmental bodies and to establish a policy dialogue with all relevant ministries in order to translate policy statements on gender equality into concrete activities. As part of this mandate, KSGM works to raise public awareness about the rights of women under Turkish law. KSGM specifically works to prevent violence, harassment and abuse directed towards women.

The Prime Ministry Social Services and Child Protection Institute (SHÇEK) is one of the coordinator institutions regarding the issue. Besides its child protection services it establishes shelters for women. There are two SHÇEK regulations in this field, one regulating those shelters connected to SHÇEK and another regulating those established by private companies and public institutions. The former identifies eligibility requirements of applicants, duration of stay, confidentiality principles, and physical condition requirements. The latter regulates licensing and minimum requirements. There are only 17 shelters established by SHÇEK.
The Ministry of Justice (MoJ); encompasses a wide range of functions and responsible for the policies and procedures that affect the management and administration of the national legal system. Human Rights Law is a priority area for the Ministry of Justice. The Ministry of Justice was one of the beneficiaries of the Project on Support for the Implementation of Human Rights Reforms in Turkey aimed to be trained on European Convention on Human Rights and jurisprudence of the European Court of Human Rights (ECHR). In addition to the abovementioned project on human rights, the Ministry of Justice organized several training programs in cooperation with universities, international organizations and institutes working in this field. Regarding the importance of the legal system in combating against domestic violence and particularly recent ECHR jurisdiction on domestic violence against women, MoJ contribution is essential.

Ministry of Interior, General Directorate for Local Authorities (GDLA); is the main beneficiary of the EU funded project Shelters for Women Subject to Violence started in March 2008 with the technical support of the UNFPA. Some of GDLA tasks are as follows:

a) Carry out, follow up, finalize and improve the Local Authorities’ official works and services that have been assigned to the Ministry with various laws, regulations and decrees.

b) Ensure that the supervisory capacity of the Ministry over the local authorities is utilized in line with the regulations

c) Supervise the appropriateness of local government investments and services to be in line within the development plans and yearly plans

d) Develop research studies, collect, evaluate and publish statistical data for the improvement of the Local Authorities.

e) Plan and implement the in-service training for the local authorities in collaboration with the Department of Education.

f) Prepare and implement the working schedules of the Local Authorities controllers in conjunction with the Board of Inspectors of the Ministry of Interior.

Ministry of Labor and Social Security Affairs; is commissioned with the duty of dealing with labor affairs. The Ministry is responsible for taking necessary protective labor and social security measures and monitor labor affairs.

Ministry of National Education (MONE); is commissioned with the duty of reaching the goals set for Turkish National Education on behalf of the State. The duties of MONE are to plan, programme, implement and monitor education and training services targeted at teachers and students in the educational institutions at all levels affiliated to the Ministry.
Turkish Statistical Institution is founded of the Statistics Council and the Presidency of Turkish Statistical Institute with Statistics Law of Turkey numbered 5429. The Statistics Council is established to use of official statistics; to determine and assess the areas in which official statistics are needed and suggestions for future works to be carried out. The Presidency of the Turkish Statistical Institution consists of central and provisional organizations to perform tasks assigned by the abovementioned law. The Institution is held responsible for collecting data on domestic violence in PM Circular dated on 2006/17.

Union of Turkish Bars established on 7 April 1969 through the new Law governing the legal profession (the Attorney’s Law), is “an organization constituted from all the bar associations” in Turkey, and is a legal entity as a public professional organization. In addition to its mission to develop the legal profession, Union of Turkish Bars is also charged with strengthening and protecting the concepts of the rule of law and human rights.

At least (1) NGO relating to domestic violence issues against women will be invited to the project but the name of NGO(s) has/have not been decided yet.

3.2 Assessment of project impact, catalytic effect, sustainability and cross border impact (where applicable)

Bearing in mind that Gendarmerie responsibility area covers %92 of all Turkish territory, impact of the proposed project will strongly contribute to solve an important social problem, namely domestic violence particularly against women. By the end of the project, Gendarmerie personnel will be more efficient in his/her performance regarding domestic violence incidents particularly against women in his/her responsibility area and the awareness of the residents (particularly women victims of domestic violence) in Gendarmerie responsibility areas will also be raised on the domestic violence issues against women. Sustainability will be in the form of the improved Gendarmerie capacity and capacity of relevant institutions. It will also have long-term positive effects in the Turkish society and will cause a positive change in mentality.

3.6 Linked activities
3.6.1 The Gendarmerie General Command has great willingness to carry out activities on its part in the combat against domestic violence, particularly violence against women and honor killings.

As such, this project will benefit from the outputs of the earlier projects implemented in this field: The outputs will be adopted, updated if necessary and will be utilized extensively. These include, training programmes, training materials developed for sectors providing protection and support services, information and communication materials prepared for public awareness, forms developed and integrated for data collection in order to establish a national data base and information system, strategy documents, action plans that clearly define the roles and responsibilities of relevant institutions and coordination mechanisms formed, etc.

In this line, this project will not only benefit from the output and lessons learned of the previous EU and UN funded projects but also will complement these efforts by expanding the reachability of the protection services in remote areas. Gendarmerie General Command responsibility area covers %92 of all Turkish territory which means that its organization extends to such a large area including the most remote and isolated places which none of other organizations can easily compete with.

3.7 Lessons learned
There are a number of key lessons learned for institutions with an interest in combating violence particularly against women during the last two decades in Turkey;

Since the beginning of 1980s women’s movement raised most of the issues about women on the basis of violence incidents. The main achievements of those years were about the acknowledgement of the definition and the social dimension of violence against women. The second important achievement was the local and the national governments began to accept the issues as a serious problem that need to be addressed. The last achievement was the common understanding that combating violence against women requires a proper collaboration between several parties such as government, state institutions, NGOs, private sector etc.

To combat violence against women, protection of women and service provision are the first important steps. The first shelters were established in the mid 1990s. Unfortunately the number of shelters has not been increased sufficiently though in addition to SHCEK shelters some NGOs established their own shelters with the collaboration of municipalities. The previous experience reveals that there is need for full ownership by the national and local administrations of such shelters. Adequate national resources should be mobilized to sustain and establish shelters for women.

The other key tool to combat violence against women is the trainings. Since the mid 1990 several trainings conducted by both the government institutions and NGOs for the service providers however the sustainability of the trainings could not be provided. First-level service providers are not fully trained and equipped to provide adequate support services to female victims of violence. Moreover, service models do not yet attend to violence prevention.

The projects which were previously carried out indicated that the need for prevention of domestic violence against women is all over the country. An improved approach through the fight against domestic violence particularly against women, which also enhances practical implementation, will have a profound impact and lead a significant decline on such violence.
Having similar knowledge, training and awareness will motivate and encourage the personnel and citizens particularly in rural areas. It is understood that further co-operation with relating institutions such as the Prime Ministry Directorate General on the Status of Women, The Prime Ministry Social Services and Child Protection Institute, Judges, Prosecutors, Governors and Municipalities on the one hand, training, the exchange of experiences and information on the other is extremely vital in this struggle.
It is also considered that the training courses should continue after the end of the project and should have a continuous aspect. So, it is essential to pay attention to the training of trainers and prepare appropriate awareness and training materials.

In this regard, this proposed project offers the chance to extend the efforts in combating the domestic violence against women into a larger area. Any place which has a Gendarmerie unit might be a center for preventive efforts. Besides, the establishment of data base will lead us to keep record in a scientific way and also allow us having more coordinated approach together with other institutions’ records on the issue. Making use of its previous experience in twinning projects, Gendarmerie General Command has the willingness to make efforts, through technical assistance, in order to have sustainable results and long-term effects in order to minimize crime and violence, particularly domestic violence against women and honor killings.
