

Published on Horizon 2020 (<https://ec.europa.eu/programmes/horizon2020>)

Friday, 28 April, 2017

The science dissemination initiative called European Researchers' Night within the Marie Skłodowska-Curie Actions was again a success in its last version in September 2016. This Europe wide public and open event aims to raise awareness about research, dispel stereotypes about researchers and entice young people to take up a research career in the future.

With 27 countries and 340 cities involved, this set of events spread around EU and beyond reached out 1.1 million people last Friday of September in its last edition.

This video features the best of all the different videos produced around under this initiative. It has been possible thanks to the collaboration of all the European Researchers' Night funded projects coordinators and the associated events to this initiative.

Source URL: <https://ec.europa.eu/programmes/horizon2020/en/news/what-european-researchers-night>