What are the ingredients we need for the climate action?

European Green Deal
(climate neutrality by 2050)

Mid-term targets: -55% by 2030 (compared to 1990)

Legislations & policies

Climate action by European citizens

... this is where 'the race to climate
neutrality will be won or lost'

Why the European Climate Pact? Awareness & Action

“The European Climate Pact will bring together everyone who wants to take action for our planet. With the Pact, we want to help everyone in Europe take action in their everyday lives, and give everyone the opportunity to get involved in the green transition and inspire each other. When it comes to tackling climate change, anyone can take action, and everyone can contribute.”

Taking part – Organisational Pledges

Pact pledging system – for ‘Big’ and ‘Small’ to be launched in June

Aims to help navigate through many existing systems AND Pact pledges are not meant to be a repetition of what exists:

- Going beyond existing law
- Adding value by asking to go beyond ‘classical’ CO2 reductions pledges – adding ‘people element’:

Engaging employees, suppliers, customers engagement. Including ‘climate slogans’ in campaigns – e.g. UEFA ‘CleanAir’

Think along lifecycle of products and services ‘what else’ can be done and how to reach people

‘Highest aim’: accelerate the necessary transitions

Navigating pledging & reporting schemes

After Summer – deliberative democracy

Based on the background materials and process provided by the Pact

European citizens discussing in a self-organised way: how Europe can achieve climate-neutrality by 2050

In action areas that are related to their daily lives (e.g. mobility, energy, food, housing, etc.)

They will submit demands to policymakers (of all levels) and other major societal stakeholders (like industry), while at the same time considering what their individual contributions to accelerate the desired outcomes (via pledges)

This bottom-up process is supplemented by policy roundtables with policymakers, representatives of different stakeholder groups (trade unions, business organisations, etc.)
