Evaluating Communication activities

Why Evaluate?

Communication being a key tool to regain citizens' trust in the European project, we need to systematically assess the actual impact of communication actions compared to objectives and initial expectations.

Evaluations of communication actions provide key data, justification and sound knowledge that allows for evidence-based decision-making to plan, design, implement and manage communication activities with ambitious objectives and measurable indicators.

This is done with a view to continuously improve the Directorate-General for Communication's (DG COMM's) communication products and services.

Who Does What?

Roles and responsibilities for managing evaluation or measurement projects are defined in the DG COMM Evaluation Charter, please see DG COMM evaluation Charter.

In DG COMM, each operational Unit/Representation is responsible for evaluating its own activities. Coordination and support is provided by the evaluation team in the "Budget, Accounting and Evaluations" Unit (COMM.D.1). The evaluation team also ensures that the Better Regulation is implemented in line with Secretariat-General (SG) guidance.

DG COMM's evaluation plan for the year 2018 is set out in the Management Plan of the DG.

DG COMM evaluation tools

- Framework Contract of DG COMM on Evaluation: Check lists, ready to use templates and Inter-institutional Check list for partners from EP, CoR, EESC and Agencies.
- Methodological Guidance: Toolkit for the evaluation of communication activities and small-scale evaluation tools.
- Professionalisation: Learning breakfasts, Masterclasses, webinars and information on external learning opportunities.
- A list of past projects (reports library) that might be of relevance for your communication activities.

Monitoring and indicators

- Good monitoring systems to collect relevant data and to provide objective feedback are essential for assessing the real results of our communications.
- High quality indicators should be used for planning, designing, monitoring and evaluating communication activities.
- Using the same indicators to measure the same type of communication activities sets the basis for comparability and benchmarking.

Simplified indicators

- DG COMM lead a project for setting indicators for communication activities for the whole Commission.
- Indicators for communication activities should be simplified and better communicated.
- On 4 June, a Communication Network (CN) workshop was organised including plenary presentations and discussions and parallel workgroups.
- 70 participants from several directorates-general selected a reduced list of recommended indicators to be submitted to the CN.
- The results of the workshop were consolidated in a one page poster.
