II.4.2) OBJET DU CONTRAT (référence et objet)

Study on Effective and efficient delivery of ESI investments – exploring alternative delivery mechanisms

For the period 2014-2020 the European Regional Development Fund (ERDF), Cohesion Fund (CF), European Social Fund (ESF), European Agriculture Fund for Rural Development (EAFRD) and the European Maritime and Fisheries Fund (EMFF) have been grouped together as the European Structural and Investment (ESI) funds and placed under a common regulatory and strategic framework. Investments under these Funds have been strongly linked to EU priorities and a number of measures to increase their effectiveness and result orientation have been introduced. Moreover, a strong emphasis of the new regulatory framework was placed on the need to simplify and improve the delivery mechanisms of the ESI Funds and to reduce the administrative burden for beneficiaries and the administrative costs for Member States managing the funds. At the same time, there is a clear orientation from the Commission to enhance the performance/result-orientation of the EU budget and demonstrate its value added, in particular to growth and jobs.

The purpose of this study is to explore options for alternative delivery mechanisms that would place a strong focus on the achievement of results, while reducing the costs of controls and reducing the error rate. It should also explore the scope for greater differentiation. As a starting point, the strengths and weaknesses of the current ESI Funds delivery mechanisms will be identified and analysed. The delivery mechanisms of other instruments and institutions will be examined and a limited number of options for further analysis will be assessed.

The results of this study will contribute to the preparatory work for the Commission's proposals under the next MFF

II.5.2) OBJET DU CONTRAT (référence et objet)

Feasibility study for a potential use of budget support in the delivery of the European Structural and Investment Funds

For the preparation of the policy proposals for post-2020 European and Structural Investment Funds (ESIF) and related impact assessments, DG REGIO and the other ESIF DGs are launching a series of studies aimed at investigating potential alternatives to the current delivery mechanisms of these funds.

The purpose of this study is to explore the feasibility of the application of budget support mechanisms, especially those applied in EU external aid (managed by DG DEVCO and DG NEAR), for the use in ESI Funds.

II.6.2) OBJET DU CONTRAT (référence et objet)

Support of European Structural and Investment Funds (ESI Funds) to the implementation of the Country Specific Recommendations and to structural reforms in Member States

The objective of the study is to assess to which extent the ESI Funds, and especially Structural funds, contribute to the implementation of structural reforms by Member States, in particular those which were put forward in the Country Specific Recommendations (CSRs).

The findings of the study will feed into the Commission's assessment of the effectiveness of the linkage between the European Semester (the CSRs) and the programming architecture. This, in turn will feed into further reflections on how programming and implementation of the Funds could be further improved in the context of the mid-term review and the post-2020 programming period.

II.10.2) OBJET DU CONTRAT (référence et objet)

Study on the use of new provisions on simplification during the early implementation phase of the European Structural and Investment (ESI) Funds.

Cohesion policy has undergone a far-reaching reform for the 2014-2020 period. The reform establishes the policy as the EU's main investment policy to foster the achievement of European objectives (Europe 2020 strategy of smart, sustainable and inclusive growth) and puts a strong emphasis on increased effectiveness and results orientation. In addition, a set of common rules has been established for the Cohesion Policy Funds (ERDF, CF and ESF), the EAFRD and the EMFF (jointly referred to as the European Structural and Investment Funds, ESIF) to streamline their implementation. Another focus of the new regulatory framework as agreed by the co-legislators in December 2013 has been to establish rules that simplify the legal framework, enhance the principle of proportionality and reduce administrative burden both for beneficiaries and for Member States managing the funds. In addition to the general provisions on the reduction of administrative burden and the application of the principle of proportionality, the regulatory framework comprises several concrete simplification measures.

The overall objective of this study is firstly to assess how the simplification possibilities in the new regulatory framework of the European Structural and Investment Funds have been taken up by Member States during the early implementation phase, secondly to compare and quantify the impact of regulatory changes in the overall delivery mechanism on the administrative burden and costs for beneficiaries and programme authorities and thirdly to assess and quantify the potential burden for beneficiaries resulting from additional rules applied at national level.

The results of this study will also feed into the work of the independent high level group monitoring simplification for beneficiaries which Commissioner Crețu plans to set up.
