ANNEX

to the Commission Implementing Decision concerning the adoption of the work programme for 2017 and the financing for the implementation of the Rights, Equality and Citizenship Programme

Rights, Equality and Citizenship Programme - Work Programme for 2017

Introduction

On 25 October 2016 the European Commission adopted its work programme for 2017.¹ Justice and Consumer policy features prominently in it, supporting Commission priorities, such as those in the Area of Justice and Fundamental Rights Based on Mutual Trust and the Digital Single Market (DSM).

In order to improve the offer to European consumers and open up new opportunities for business, the Commission proposed the Digital Single Market Strategy in May 2015. The Consumer Law Database, an e-Justice project being developed in 2016-2017, will receive funding for content update from this programme.

The internet and digital technologies are transforming our world. But existing barriers online mean citizens miss out on goods and services, internet companies and start-ups have their horizons limited, and businesses and governments cannot fully benefit from digital tools. The recent major data protection reform will strengthen citizens' rights and cut costs and red tape for European business. A dedicated call will be launched in 2017 to train data protection authorities on the data protection reform. Funding is also foreseen to launch studies exploring how consumers and businesses can fully exploit the benefits brought by new digital content and services, the data economy and the Internet of Things.

This work programme also takes account of two recent developments, where Justice and Fundamental Rights policies can make a contribution: the protection of refugees and migrants, and the surge of radicalisation and intolerance phenomena. Strengthening child protection systems is one of the Commission's priorities under rights of the child. Child protection system actors need to be closely involved in dealing with children in migration.

DG Justice and Consumers will address the worrying increase of hate crime and hate speech by allocating funding to actions aiming at preventing and combating racism, xenophobia and other forms of intolerance, tying in, among others, with the work of the Commission's coordinators on combating Antisemitism and anti-Muslim hatred as well as the new High Level Group on combating racism, xenophobia and other forms of intolerance, including dedicated work in the area of countering online hate speech (implementation of the Code of Conduct on countering illegal hate speech online) and on assisting Member States developing a common methodology on recording and collecting data on hate crimes. DG Justice also funds civil society organisations combatting racism, xenophobia and other forms of intolerance.

The Commission continues to promote gender equality. The funding under this work programme will continue to support the priorities and objectives highlighted in the Strategic engagement for gender equality 2016-2019, such as equal economic independence of women and men, and fighting gender based violence.

A call for action grants will support the implementation of the LGBTI List of Actions, initiatives promoting diversity management, youth and Roma integration. Under procurement, an important study on trade union practices on anti-discrimination and diversity will be launched.

The promotion of Roma integration will pass through political dialogue with the Member States, close co-operation with the National Roma Contact Points-NRCP responsible for overseeing the National Roma Integration Strategies and the support to the National Roma Platform (an ad hoc restricted call). Support to and co-operation with civil society organisations active on non-discrimination and Roma integration will be encouraged through operating and action grants.

Two calls will address the problem of gender-based violence and violence against children under the Daphne specific objective. The Commission is also engaging with civil society in its aim to promote gender equality, to combat violence against women and children, and it also funds European networks working towards this goal.

Fostering the successful inclusion and political participation of mobile EU citizens in the civic and political life is one important dimension of EU citizenship. National, local authorities and NGOs have high expectations for support for such actions. In the run up to the 2019 European elections, there is a need for a specific focus on democratic participation and electoral rights.

Information campaigns are also needed, to raise awareness about EU rights, such as to their electoral rights, and how rules should be applied, and to help citizens use their rights in practice.

2.2.6. Restricted call for proposals to address gender gaps over the life-cycle

LEGAL BASIS

Art. 4 and 5 Regulation (EU) No 1381/2013

Specific objective: to promote equality between women and men and to advance gender mainstreaming

BUDGET LINE

33 02 02

Priorities of the year, objectives pursued and expected results

The aim of the call is to support projects by Member States that analyse existing gender gaps and develop effective measures to tackle them, in particular the gender gap in pensions. The underlying reasons for women's lower income and women's greater risk of poverty are manifold: women participate less in the labour market, they work fewer hours, and they are paid less than men on average. Also the take up of family-related leaves and time spent on care work have an impact on women's earnings. There are inequalities in study subject choices and careers patterns, and women often face glass ceilings when it comes to accessing decision-making positions. Gendered patterns in education partly explain the gender segregation in the labour market. All this leads to the persistence of the gender pay gap, the gender earnings gap and the gender gap in pensions. Gender gaps in pay, pensions and participation hinder women's economic independence.

The expected impact of the projects is to contribute to reducing the gender gap in pay, earnings and pensions and the higher risk of poverty faced by older women, for example by supporting men and women to make informed choices throughout their life and by combatting obstacles to the economic independence of women. At aggregate level, tackling the gender gap in pensions and its underlying causes contributes to the sustainability of social protection systems: equal economic independence at all ages means that each individual woman/man is able to live out of its own work and is able to fully contribute to the social protection system.

This specific call will also respond to the call of the Council of the European Union to raise awareness on the gender pension gap and to ensure that women and men "remain in quality employment over the whole life cycle, resulting in higher labour force participation and fuller careers and thus an earnings history that will result in an adequate pension" (Council conclusions adopted in September 2015).

2.3.3. Operating grant 2018 to a de facto monopoly - EQUINET

LEGAL BASIS

Art. 4 and 5 Regulation (EU) No 1381/2013

Specific objective: to promote the effective implementation of the principle of non-discrimination on the grounds of sex, racial or ethnic origin, religion or belief, disability, age or sexual orientation, and to respect the principle of non-discrimination on the grounds provided for in Article 21 of the Charter

Article 190(1)(c) of the Rules of Application

BUDGET LINE

Priorities of the year, objectives pursued and expected results

The beneficiary of the grant will be EQUINET AISBL (registered in Belgium). EQUINET was created in 2007 and its members are national Equality Bodies as established by Article 13 of Directive 2000/43/EC; Article 12 of Directive 2004/113/EC and Article 20 of Directive 2006/54/EC. These articles provide that Member States will designate a body or bodies for the promotion of equal treatment of all persons without discrimination on grounds of racial or ethnic origin or sex. These bodies may form part of agencies charged at national level with the defence of human rights or the safeguarding of individuals' rights. As the designation of equality bodies by the Member States is required by the abovementioned articles, these organisations are well identified.

EQUINET is in a de facto monopoly situation, because this is the only network which can ensure coordination of activities and exchange of good practices between Equality bodies foreseen by Directives 2000/43/EC, 2004/113/EC and 2006/54/EC.

Member States must also ensure that the competences of these bodies include independent assistance to victims of discrimination in pursuing their complaints about discrimination, conducting independent surveys concerning discrimination and finally publishing independent reports and making recommendations on any issue relating to such discrimination.

The Commission considers that the national Equality Bodies play a key role in the actual implementation of Directives 2000/43/EC, 2004/113/EC and 2006/54/EC. This is comprehensive legislation taking a rights-based approach, so it will work only if citizens take cases to court. That is why there is a need for comprehensive support by the equality bodies, both in terms of direct support to the individuals and in terms of research and awareness-raising. The work with the Equality Bodies to date has shown a very varied level of knowledge and working methods among the 28 equality bodies. Consequently, European sharing of best practice is crucial to get a common level of protection of citizen's across the EU.

The Commission will invite EQUINET in writing to submit its proposal announcing the annual priorities for 2018.

Description of the activities to be funded

This grant aims to support the activities implemented in 2018 by the network of the equality bodies and encourage the sharing of experiences and good practices between them.

Essential award criteria

Proposals will be assessed based on the following award criteria:

- (a) extent to which the proposed annual work programme addresses the priorities announced by the Commission;
- (b) quality of the annual work programme, which must be clear, realistic and well detailed;
- (c) European added value of the annual work programme;
- (d) Expected results, dissemination, sustainability and long-term impact;
- (e) Cost-effectiveness

EXPECTED RESULTS

- Increased capacity of national equality bodies experts to address issues related to non-discrimination;
- strengthened cooperation and exchange of information between Equality Bodies ;
- improved knowledge on the legislation and administrative practices related to non-discrimination.
