Abstract:

Project background and relevance

Gender-based violence (GBV) is the main cause of homelessness amongst women. Homelessness is a significant risk factor for experiencing GBV. PIE4shelters contributes to the protection and support of homeless women as a group particularly affected by GBV and acts within a wider European context: 2017 is the year of focused actions against GBV, along with DG JUST's commitment to combat GBV and Commissioner Jourova's statement emphasizing GBV as a cause and consequence of women's homelessness.

Objectives

- Improve protection and support to homeless victims of GBV.
- Build the capacity of services to meet the needs of homeless victims of GBV.
- Support shelters to become Psychologically Informed Environments. Activities
- Assessment of current provision in shelters working with homeless victims of GBV in 5 partner countries (HU, UK, IE, IT, BE)
- Development of a European training framework on PIE for shelters
- Delivery of a range of training activities in partner countries Results
- Shelters equipped to meet the needs of homeless victims of GBV
- Empowerment of homeless victims of GBV

- Improved quality of protection and support to homeless victims of GBV
- Increased awareness of the needs of homeless victims of GBV, and how to meet them, amongst service providers and policy makers.

Outputs

- PIE for shelters training framework
- European Guide on PIE for shelters, translated into FR, EN,IT, HU
- 5 National “gap mapping” reports
- 5 National awareness raising events and 1 EU workshop
- 15 training events in 5 MS and 1 European train-the-trainer event
- 7 dissemination meetings with national and European-level policy makers

Beneficiaries

- Frontline and management staff (at least 244 participants in 15 services in 5 MS)
- 40 trainers trained to reach out to wider homeless and gender-based violence services in 5 MS
- Homeless sector across the EU (130 FEANTSA member organizations)
- Homeless victims of GBV.

Abstract:

The project aims to upgrade the competencies of professionals via capacity building activities so as to better meet the needs of GBV victims and treat perpetrators. Another aim is to develop and test new intervention methods package tools through mutual learning and evaluating their utilized methods of supporting victims of GBV and of perpetrators' treatment.

Formulation of transnational workshops and material referring to existing tools used by partners will target 10 professionals (staff who provides support through therapy, shelter, helplines etc.) from partners' organizations. At the pilot phase 60 victims of GBV and perpetrators will be involved.

A training curriculum on combating GBV and enforcing Directive 2012/29/EU will target 250 front line professionals (police and other civil servants) via 10 training seminars.

Awareness raising activities will reach 20000 people through: 5 info days, 1 Final Conference, social media, Media Toolkit and informative material for victims aiming to changing attitudes towards combating GBV.

Project activities will result in:

- improved quality of services provided from professionals when dealing with victims of GBV;
- enhanced knowledge;

- ensured access to justice and information provided to all victims;
- strengthened cooperation between all actors operating in the field (Cooperation Protocol) and good practices will be exchanged.

The above will result in the overall improvement of victim support systems, in parallel of enhancing the professionals work.

Finally horizontal activities aim to achieve management & coordination through

- 6 Bilateral Agreements,
- 1 PM Plan,
- 4 Progress Reports,
- 5 Partners Meetings,
- 1 Steering and 1 Quality Assurance Committee,
- 2 Official reports.

Outputs of evaluation include

- 620 questionnaires from professionals, victims, perpetrators,
- 4 Evaluation Reports,
- 5 Focus groups.

Monitoring activities will be carried to record behavioral and attitudinal change, thus the validation of proposed tools will be ensured.

Abstract:

The objective of this project is to enhance the responsiveness, professional knowledge and skills of criminal justice practitioners in addressing GBV, thus increasing public trust in the criminal justice system and subsequently the level of reporting of GBV cases.

The objective will be achieved through the set-up of national Steering Committees, Reference Groups and Working Groups, the delivery of a regional Training of Trainers, followed by national Specialized Trainings for criminal justice practitioners and an Awareness Raising Campaign.

The project addresses both the policy level, through the national Steering Committees, and the criminal justice practitioners, through the capacity building activities.

A total of 120 criminal justice practitioners will participate in the capacity building activities and will gain knowledge and practical skills to prevent and respond to GBV.

A total of 15 000 first responders will get practical information on how to respond to victims of GBV.

A total of 15 000 potential victims will get useful information on their rights.

Approximately 100 000 bystanders will understand their role as a change agent.

The primary result of this project is that through the capacity building activities, the criminal justice practitioners have enhanced capacities to respond to cases of GBV. Furthermore, the awareness of gender stereotypes, causes and effects of GBV is raised among criminal justice practitioners and civil society, contributing to a sustainable change.

Outputs:

- 1 Kick-off event;
- 3 national situational analyses;
