Panel 1 - Labour law and social protection frameworks: from regulatory gaps to full recognition of domestic workers' rights (14:00 – 15:15)

Objective of the panel : despite the adoption of ILO Convention 189, many domestic workers still suffer from poor labour law and social protection. So far, only seven EU Member States have ratified the Convention. Amongst the 6.3 million formal domestic workers working in the EU, nearly 2 million of them do not enjoy standard labour rights and social protection as they belong to specific derogatory regulations. Therefore, this panel will address the general regulative exemptions and gaps which still apply to domestic workers. It will discuss how decision makers can set up more supportive regulatory frameworks and present initiatives aimed at ratifying ILO Convention 189, improving national regulations and fostering social dialogue in the sector (towards a better representation and structuration of the sector).

Moderator of the session: Mark Bergfeld, Director of Property Services & UNICARE at UNI Global Union

Participants:

- The importance of social dialogue, video by ACV/CSC – Belgium
- A New Work-Life balance policy: the opportunity to formalize care (the crossroads of policies against job insecurity in the domestic work sector) by Carmen Grau Pineda Professor de la University of Las Palmas de Gran Canaria and Gema Quintero Lima Professor de la University of Carlos III Madrid – Spain

- Ten years of C189: voices from domestic workers' organisers, video produced by DomEQUAL, PI Sabrina Marchetti (Ca' Foscari University, Venice, Italy)

Q&A session with the audience.

Panel 2 - Tackling undeclared work in domestic work: challenges and successful practices (15:45 – 17:00)

Objective of the panel: An appropriate labour law and social protection framework does not necessarily prevent undeclared work in the domestic sector. Thus, at least 3,1 million domestic workers are undeclared in the EU. The decision to hire a domestic worker formally or on the undeclared market is driven by many factors such as the relative cost and the administrative complexity, as well as the affordability of doing so in relation to a user's income and need. Therefore, while there are various instruments that contribute to reducing undeclared work in the domestic work sector, this panel will focus on measures aimed at reducing the cost of formally hiring a domestic worker (e.g. social-fiscal incentives), at improving detection and at reducing the administrative complexity.

Moderator: Kerstin Howald, Political Secretary for Tourism and Domestic Work sectors, EFFAT

Participants:

- Domestic care workers in the EU: working condition challenges, undeclared work & policy options, by Hans Dubois, research manager in the Social Policies unit at Eurofound
- Italian domestic work and immigration, video presented by Andrea Zini, President of Assindatcolf – Italy

Q&A session with the audience.

Tuesday 29th June 2021

Panel 3 - Guaranteeing the effective enforcement of domestic workers' rights (9:00 – 10:15)

Objective of the panel: Even in countries where the labour and social protection regulatory frameworks could be considered “satisfactory”, we witness a weak enforcement of these rights. Therefore, this panel will present various national and local initiatives aimed at improving the enforcement of labour and social protection standards for domestic workers. It will notably address the issues of access to social protection, domestic workers’ professionalisation and health & safety prevention measures.

Moderator: Karin Pape, Regional coordinator for Europe, IDWF

Participants:

- How specific EU labour law sources can be used to challenge national provisions and practices that make domestic work vulnerable to exploitation by Vera Pavlou from the University of Glasgow
- Promoting Better Working Conditions on the Domestic Sector by Teresa Pargana, Head of Division for Studies Conception and Technical Support to Inspection Activity, Working condition authority (ACT) – Portugal

- Raluca Painter, Head of unit “Labour Market, Health and Social Services” at DG REFORM

Q&A session with the audience.

Panel 4 - Digital platforms and domestic workers' rights (10:45 – 11:45)

Objective of the panel: Digital platforms offer opportunities for opening up employment to greater participation while at the same time having the potential to expand on precariousness in the labour market. Therefore, this panel will explore how online platforms and more globally the “gig economy”, could act as a virtuous model to strengthen domestic workers’ status. It is anticipated that both the advantages and risks of digital solutions for domestic workers, including the latest regulatory developments both at European and national levels will also be discussed.

Moderator: Thomas Bignal, Policy Manager, EASPD

Participants:

- The French online declarative platform CESU : a way to tackle undeclared work and guarantee social rights by Adrien Gauthier, ACCOSS – France
- Pursuit of decent work, equality and human rights: A lifetime journey for domestic workers by Mariaam Bhatti, Co-founder at the Great Care Co-op – Ireland

- European Commission’s inputs on the on-going initiative on platform work by Nikolay Stoyanov, Policy Officer - Future of Work European Commission, Unit Employment Strategy (EMPL.B.1)

Q&A session with the audience.

Panel 5 - Domestic workers & migration (13:15 – 14:30)

Objective of the panel: This session will discuss how decision makers can improve the situation of migrant domestic workers (MDW) in Europe by improving regular pathways for migration, implementing regularisation schemes, and addressing particular challenges for migrant domestic workers’ labour rights.

Moderator: Aude Boisseuil, General Delegate, EFFE

Participants:
