Mobile work in the pandemic

- The pandemic reduced mobility – to a certain degree...
- ... but also made the importance of mobile workers more visible.

Mobile work in the pandemic

- The effect came in waves – as did the pandemic
- Movers' employment rate decreased more than nationals (-2.6% vs. -0.7%)
- Employment structure of movers is one reason

Cross-border telework and Covid-19

MoveS Seminar

I- Labour legislation applicable

Background

- Specific issues related to telework: which national law is applicable?
 - Rules applicable for working time,
 - Rest period,
 - Health & safety
 - Leave (e.g., sickness)
 - fixed-term contracts
 - contract termination
 - Specific rules on telework (passage to telework, work equipment, privacy, equality of treatment with other employees...)
 - ...

Right to choose law applicable

- An individual employment contract is governed by the law chosen by the parties (art. 8, Reg. 593/2008 “Rome I”)
 - Applicable to cross-border telework relationship
 - F. works for a Spanish company located in Salamanca. She resides near the border in Portugal from where she habitually works remotely from home.
= By agreement between parties, Spanish law can apply to the employment contract
 - Only the chosen law?
 - The contract is also governed by the law (only for its more protective non amendable provisions) which, in the absence of choice, would have been applicable = “objective law” of the contract

Which law is (objectively) applicable to the employment contract?

- Article 8, Rome I: 3 connecting factors
 - a. Lex loci laboris (place of work)
 - b. Law of the place of engagement
 - c. Law of the country where the contract is more closely connected
- Impact of the law objectively applicable
 - Applies in addition to the law chosen by the parties, for its “non derogable by agreement” more protective provisions (Art. 8(1), Rome I)
 - If no law has been chosen, it governs entirely the contractual relationship
If PT law is objectively applicable, PT law will apply (for its non derogable more protective provisions) in addition to ES law or may even be the only law applicable to the contract (if no law chosen by parties)

Case 1: temporary telework

- The contract is governed by the law of the country in which or, failing that, from which the employee habitually carries out his work in performance of the contract.
- The country where the work is habitually carried out shall not be deemed to have changed if he is temporarily employed in another country (art. 8(2))
 - Occasional tele-work (e.g., during pandemic) should not affect identification of workplace
 - = Z habitually works in Spain. For 6 months during the pandemic, he worked full-time from home (Portugal). Whether or not his employment contract stipulates that Spanish law is applicable, Spanish law should govern the contract

Case 1: temporary telework

- Overriding mandatory provisions of the law of the country of telework should anyhow apply (Art. 9, Rome I)!
 - Z habitually works in Spain for a Portuguese company. For 6 months during the pandemic, he worked full-time from home (Portugal).
 - Even if Spanish law governs the contract, Portuguese law may be applicable for what a Portuguese court would consider as “overriding mandatory” national rules = Criminal employment law, fundamental freedoms, right to strike, health & safety provisions, “protected employees”...
 - Ex. Z is Peruvian, he should need to claim a work permit in Portugal

Case 2: permanent telework

- Where is the teleworker's place of work?
 - “in order to determine the meaning of the words 'place ... where the employee habitually carries out his work' (...) in a case where the employee carries out his work in more than one Contracting State, the Court's previous case-law must be taken into account when determining the place with which the dispute has the most significant link, while taking due account of the concern to afford proper protection to the employee as the weaker party to the contract (case C-383/95, Rutten)
 - “Where the work entrusted to the employee is performed in the territory of more than one Contracting State, it is important to define the place of performance of the contractual obligation, (...) as being the place where or from which the employee principally discharges his obligations towards his employer (case C-125/92, Mulox).

Case 2: permanent telework

- Where is the teleworker's place of work?
 - “refer to the place where the employee has established the effective centre of his working activities and where, or from which, he in fact performs the essential part of his duties vis-à-vis his employer” (Rutten)
 - “the place where the employee actually performs the work covered by the contract with his employer” (Rutten)
 - the relevant criterion for establishing an employee's habitual place of work (...) is, in principle, the place where he spends most of his working time engaged on his employer's business (C-37/00, Weber)

a) Where is the teleworker's place of work?

- If only remote work

- Law applicable should be that of country of residence = habitual workplace (see case law + wording of Art. 8(2) :"from which")

Z is employed by an Italian company. Since the pandemic, she works exclusively and permanently from her “secondary home” in Porto.

= PT law should be applicable to the contract (in addition to the law chosen by parties, if any)

- If mix of remote work/ on-site work

- Solution may depend on the proportion between remote work and on-site work

Z is employed by an Italian company. Since the pandemic, he works permanently from his “secondary home” in Porto. He goes to Roma once per month for one week.

= PT law should be applicable to the contract: most of his working time in Portugal (in addition to the Italian law, if chosen by parties)

a) Where is the teleworker's place of work?

- If workplace is in the country of telework
 - Scenario 1: Parties have not chosen the law applicable to the contract
 - Law of country of telework applies entirely and exclusively to the employment contract

P works remotely from Lisbon for a Belgian company. Since March 2020 he works 90% of his time from home. The employment contract does not stipulate a legislation applicable.
= PT law should be exclusively applicable
 - Scenario 2: Parties have chosen the law where company is established
 - Law of country of telework applies for its “non derogable by agreement” provisions if they are more protective than the law chosen

P works remotely from Lisbon for a Belgian company. Since March 2020 he works 90% of his time from home. The employment contract provides the application of BE law.
If the employee is dismissed, it will be necessary to compare PT and BE law, and apply the more protective one
 - Scenario 3: Parties have chosen law of country of telework

P works remotely from Lisbon for a Belgian company. Since March 2020 he works 90% of his time from home. The employment contract provides the application of PT law.
If the employee is dismissed, PT law will be exclusively applicable

b) Law of the place of engagement

- The criterion of the country in which the employee ‘habitually carries out his work’ (...) must be broadly construed, whereas the criterion of ‘the place of business through which [the employee] was engaged’ (...) can apply only in cases where the court hearing the case is not in a position to determine the country in which the work is habitually carried out
 - Connecting factor unlikely to apply for cross-border telework

Z is employed by an Italian company and has been recruited in Milano. Since the pandemic, he works permanently from his “secondary home” in Porto.

= Irrespective of the fact he has been engaged in Italy, PT law is objectively applicable to the contract (in addition to the law chosen by parties, if any)

c) “Escape clause”

- “Where it appears from the circumstances as a whole that the contract is more closely connected with a country other than that indicated in paragraphs 2 or 3, the law of that other country shall apply.
- “among the significant factors suggestive of a connection with a particular country, account should be taken in particular of the country in which the employee pays taxes on the income from his activity and the country in which he is covered by a social security scheme and pension, sickness insurance and invalidity schemes. In addition, the national court must also take account of all the circumstances of the case, such as the parameters relating to salary determination and other working conditions” (Case C-64/12, Schlecker)
- The search for the closest link “must not automatically result in the application, in all cases, of the law most favourable to the worker” (Schlecker).

c) “Escape clause”

- Even if workplace is at home, could the place where the company is located be that of the closest connection?
 - Place where employee has been hired, place of key meetings, trainings, HR events (promotion interviews, sanctions, dismissal...), place of work community = centre of gravity of relationship?
 - Place of social security affiliation / tax?
 - If so, would prevail over the criterion of habitual workplace
- Escape clause should prevail over lex loci laboris?
 - P, a Belgian citizen, works remotely from Lisbon for a Belgian company. Since March 2020 she works from home. The employment contract provides the application of BE law. She remains insured for social security in BE where she goes one day per week. She is paid from there and gets instructions from BE. The company's activity is centered in Belgium. P is supposed to go back to work in Belgium in 2023.
 - Is the contract more closely connected with Belgium (therefore disregarding law of Portugal as the country of habitual work)?

II- Social security legislation applicable

Background

- No statistics on telework and cross-border telework
- Strong suspicion that telework increased during pandemic especially in border areas and in “touristic areas” (such as in Portugal)
- Temporary practices becoming permanent?
- Various cases
 - Work exclusively carried out abroad by (frontier) worker in one country before pandemic, then full-time or part-time telework in another country during pandemic, pattern possibly lasting after pandemic
 - Work performed in several countries before pandemic, then full-time or part-time in country of residence through telework
 - Telework being temporary or meant to become (full-time / part-time) permanent
 - Full-time telework already before pandemic...

Background

- Does telework affect the social security legislation applicable (and how)?
- In the context of the pandemic
 - Who pays sickness benefits in cash (replacement income in case of disease, accident at work...)?
 - How (and where) does worker have access to healthcare?
 - Who pays (partial) unemployment benefits?
 - Where are contributions paid?

Solutions are found in existing rules determining the legislation applicable set out by Regulations 883/2004 and 987/2009

Option 1: Law where activity is pursued?

Lex loci laboris

“a person pursuing an activity as an employed person in a Member State shall be subject to the legislation of that Member State” (Art. 11(3)(a) – general rule)

Law where activity is pursued

- Where does a cross-border teleworker perform his activity?
 - No specific solution in Reg. 883/2004, in 987/2009, by AC nor in EC practical guide
 - “the concept of the ‘location’ of an activity must be understood, in accordance with the primary meaning of the words used, as referring to the place where, in practical terms, the person concerned carries out the actions connected with that activity” (Partena, case C-137/11)
 - “that it is incumbent on the institution concerned, whatever the wording of those contractual documents, to base its findings on the employed person’s actual situation” (Format I, case C-115/11)

Law where activity is pursued

- If work entirely and permanently carried out from home
 - Residence is where the activity is performed = social security law of that country
If A works permanently and full-time from home in Lisbon for an Austrian employer, she should be subject to Portuguese social security
- If work partly and/or temporarily carried out from home
 - Could the place where company is situated be identified as place where activity is pursued? Yes, if...
 - Company is the place where instructions are given, remuneration is paid, important events take place (recruitment, evaluation interviews, dismissal interview...), where the work community is situated + equal treatment of colleagues
 - In both cases, “close link” with country where employer is located (the search for “close link” being at the core of title II of Reg. 883/2004)
 - “In order to determine whether a person should be considered to be normally employed in two or more Member States or, conversely, whether they work merely occasionally in several Member States, regard must be had, in particular, to the duration of periods of activity and to the nature of the employment as defined in the contractual documents, as well as to the actual work performed, where appropriate, namely, inter alia, the way in which the employment contracts concluded between the employer and the worker concerned have been performed in practice in the past, the circumstances surrounding the conclusion of those contracts and, more generally, the characteristics and modalities of the activities pursued by the undertaking concerned”
(Format II, case C-879/19)

Option 2: Pursuit of activities in 2 countries

“A person who normally pursues an activity as an employed person in two or more countries shall be subject:

- (a) to the legislation of the country of residence if he/she pursues a substantial part of his/her activity in that country; or
- (b) if he/she does not pursue a substantial part of his/her activity in the MS of residence: (i) to the legislation of the country in which the registered office or place of business of the undertaking or employer is situated if he/she is employed by one undertaking or employer”
(Art.13(1)(a))

Pursuit of activities in 2 countries

“A ‘substantial part of employed activity’ pursued in a MS shall mean a quantitatively substantial part of all the activities of the employed or self-employed person pursued there, without this necessarily being the major part of those activities.

The following indicative criteria shall be taken into account: (a) in the case of an employed activity, the working time and/or the remuneration (...)

In the framework of an overall assessment, a share of less than 25 % in respect of the criteria mentioned above shall be an indicator that a substantial part of the activities is not being pursued in the relevant Member State Reg. 987/2009, Art.14(8).

NB: Flexibility for assessing the 25% rule = the institutions concerned shall take into account the situation projected for the following 12 calendar months (Reg. 987/2009, Art.14(10)) + “past performance is also a reliable measure of future behaviour and thus when it is not possible to base a decision on planned work patterns or duty rosters, it would be reasonable to look at the situation over the previous 12 months and to use this for assessing substantial activity” (practical guide).

Pursuit of activities in 2 countries

- Telework 2 days/ week in Porto where employee resides, and 3 days in Madrid where employer is located
 - = PT social security law (40% of working time in PT)
- In 2020, the person worked from home in Porto for 4 months (more than 25% of working time) and in Madrid the rest of year, but in 2021 work should be 90% in Madrid, just like it was before pandemic
 - = ES social security law (considering the situation projected for the following 12 calendar months + past performances)?

Pursuit of activities in 2 countries

- Temporary (occasional) activities in 2 countries, as the result of a combination remote work / company work, should be disregarded
 - “A person who normally pursues an activity as an employed person in two or more MS shall be subject...”
 - “the fact that a person works in a MS merely occasionally cannot be taken into account for the purposes of application of Art. 14(2)(b)(i) of Reg. 1408/71”(case C-570/15, X.)

P worked 6 months from home in Lisbon in 2020 as a result of successive lockdowns. Before that, she performed his activities in France and resumed working in France after the lockdowns

= FR social security law applicable?

Pursuit of activities in 2 countries

- Marginal activities are disregarded
 - Activities that are permanent but insignificant in terms of time and economic return. It is suggested that, as an indicator, activities accounting for less than 5% of the worker's regular working time and/or less than 5% of his/her overall remuneration should be regarded as marginal activities (Art. 14(5)(b) Reg. 987 + practical guide)
 - However, “the situation of a Danish worker, residing in Denmark and employed exclusively by an undertaking with its seat in Germany, who in the course of that employment relationship, regularly, for several hours each week and for a period not limited to 12 months pursues his activity partly in Denmark, falls under Article 14(2)(b)(i) [person normally employed in 2 MS] of Regulation No 1408/71” (case C-425/93, Calle Grenzshop Andresen)

Consequence: back to lex loci laboris conflict of rule

If A works from home one week per year in Portugal, she remains subject to the social security of the country of workplace

Pursuit of activities in 2 countries

- As a derogation, Article 13 (Reg. 883/2004) must be applied strictly (Format II)
 - “As is clear from [the lex laboris rule of conflict], it is necessary to derogate from the general rule of connection to the country of employment only in specific situations which demonstrate that another connection is more appropriate” ”(case C-570/15, X.)
 - “To accept that application of Article 14(2) of Regulation No 1408/71 could be justified in circumstances in which a person, who out of the total hours worked in one year for his employer established in one MS carried out only 6.5% of those hours (at home) in another MS, without such an arrangement having been agreed with his employer in advance, would be inconsistent with the fact that connection to the MS of residence is a derogation and would create a risk of the conflict rules contained in Title II of that regulation being circumvented”(case C-570/15, X.).

Pursuit of activities in 2 countries

- Drawbacks of Article 13:
 - Complex case by case implementation
 - Risk of frequent change in legislation applicable (if place of residence / distribution of working time change)
 - Risk of instrumentation / fraud (through location of place of residence + distribution of working time between 2 countries)
 - Unequal treatment of employees belonging to the same work community
- ❖ What about a company's regulation forbidding cross-border telework for more than 25% of the working time?
- ❖ Or requiring employee to arrange his working time with a view to remaining insured in the country where company's office is located?
- ❖ Can a company's collective agreement forbid telework from abroad?

Option 3: Posting

“A person who pursues an activity as an employed person in a MS on behalf of an employer which normally carries out its activities there and who is posted by that employer to another MS to perform work on that employer’s behalf shall continue to be subject to the legislation of the first MS, provided that the anticipated duration of such work does not exceed 24 months and that he/she is not sent to replace another posted person” (Art. 12(1), special rule).

Posting

- Relevant rule of conflict for cross-border teleworkers?
 - Teleworker is not providing a cross-border service + no service recipient
 - Telework is usually voluntary (or made compulsory by State/local authority regulations)
- In practice, A1 forms are granted by some “sending country”

G works for an Italian company. Since the pandemic, she works from Aveiro where she owns a house. She has been granted a PD A1 by the Italian competent institution. Portugal may claim withdrawal of PD A1, but Italian institution remains free not to do so

Commission guidelines during pandemic

- Scenario 1: frontier worker working exclusively in a MS other than that of residence
 - If you are now unable to work in your ordinary country of employment, and for a temporary period, you have to work from home, this situation should in principle not lead to a change in the applicable legislation as regards your social security coverage, since that situation is temporary. You will continue to be entitled to all social security benefits from the MS of employment.

NB: consistent with the idea that Article 11(3)(a) refers implicitly to the habitual workplace + no “normal activity” in the MS of residence + coherence with Title II objectives (search for close link+ continuity of affiliation) + consistent with case C-570/15 (“occasional activities”).

Commission guidelines during pandemic

- Scenario 2: Working in both countries of employment and of residence + insured in the country of employment because activity in the country of residence is not substantial (less than 25% of your working time)
 - You are currently insured in the MS of employment. Now that the activity in your MS of residence is going to increase, it may become substantial (understood as more than 25% of your working time over a period of 12 months).
 - In that case, the legislation of your MS of residence could become applicable under Article 13 (...) only if the average working time over a period of 12 month exceeds 25% of your total working time in all MS. Therefore, the fact that for the next few weeks you will be performing a substantial activity in your MS of residence, this should not have an impact on your social security situation.

NB: consistent with Art.14(10) Reg. 987/2009: “the institutions concerned shall take into account the situation projected for the following 12 calendar months” + “past performance is also a reliable measure of future behaviour and thus when it is not possible to base a decision on planned work patterns or duty rosters, it would be reasonable to look at the situation over the previous 12 months and to use this for assessing substantial activity (practical guide).

Commission guidelines during pandemic

- What if the above scenarios are not applicable to your case and as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic, you may end up with a change in the country of social insurance?
 - As a result, this may lead to a change in your MS of social security insurance, you may ask your employer to submit a request to the competent authority of the MS whose legislation you wish to continue to be applied, to continue to be subject to its legislation.
- The employer should substantiate this request that it is in your best interest to remain insured in the Member State where you are currently covered
- + reminder that MS can conclude 'Article 16 agreements'

(Source: Covid-19 - Information for frontier workers and posted workers)

Countries' initiatives: Portugal

- Guidance has been provided to competent institutions to the effect that teleworking should not involve changes to the applicable legislation as regards posted workers, workers performing activity in two or more Member States and cross-border workers (Article 9 of Order No. 94-A/2020 of 2020-04-16 – see ELA report, July 2021)

Other countries' initiatives

- Several MS (BE, CH, DE, FR, LU...) have unilaterally decided to extend the rule according which periods of telework on the national territory due to the Covid-19 crisis should not be considered as work in that country for the purpose of determining the legislation applicable.
 - Law of country where employer is located /habitual workplace continues to be applicable
 - 25% rule is neutralized
- NB: no legal binding effect of such informal and unilateral decisions

Article 16 agreements?

“Two or more MS, the competent authorities of these MS or the bodies designated by these authorities may by common agreement provide for exceptions to Articles 11 to 15 in the interest of certain persons or categories of persons”

Conclusion

- One single place of activity? Activities in 2 countries? Posting?
- One underlying Title II Rg. 883/2004 objective
 - continuity of insurance in the same country
 - Continuity vs facts (close link)?
- Need for an ad hoc rule of conflict distinguishing two cases
 - exclusive remote work / work shared between home and company
 - In the meantime: “the concept of the ‘location’ of an activity must be considered to be a matter, not for the legislation of the Member States, but for EU law and, consequently, for interpretation by the Court” (case C-137/11, Partena).

Regime especial: reconhecimento de qualificações

Foi publicado o Decreto-Lei n.º 28-B/2022, de 25 de março, que estabelece medidas relativas ao reconhecimento de qualificações profissionais de beneficiários de proteção temporária no âmbito do conflito armado na Ucrânia.

O regime especial apenas se aplica aos beneficiários de proteção temporária, refugiados provenientes da Ucrânia e às profissões regulamentadas.

No prazo de 10 dias a contar da submissão de um pedido de reconhecimento de qualificações, o órgão instrutor emite o comprovativo de que o pedido foi instruído com a documentação legalmente exigida, ou profere despacho de convite ao aperfeiçoamento. No caso de documentação insuficiente em virtude da situação de guerra, o órgão instrutor diligencia, oficiosamente, através da Direção-Geral do Emprego e das Relações de Trabalho (DGERT), junto da Comissão Europeia, no sentido de obtenção de segunda via da documentação em falta.

- O reconhecimento em Portugal de graus académicos e diplomas de ensino superior, atribuídos por instituições de ensino superior estrangeiras, é efetuado pela Direção-Geral do Ensino Superior (DGES) em articulação com a Comissão de Reconhecimento de Graus e Diplomas Estrangeiros, e é regulado, desde 1 de janeiro de 2019, pelo Decreto-Lei n.º 66/2018 de 16 de agosto.

Reconhecimento de Graus e Diplomas

- Existem três tipos de reconhecimento em Portugal.
- RECONHECIMENTO AUTOMÁTICO
- RECONHECIMENTO DE NÍVEL
- RECONHECIMENTO ESPECÍFICO

RECONHECIMENTO AUTOMÁTICO

- É o ato que permite reconhecer genericamente um grau ou diploma de ensino superior estrangeiro, cujo nível, objetivos e natureza sejam idênticos aos graus portugueses de licenciado, mestre e doutor ou de diploma de técnico superior profissional, que conste do elenco de graus e diplomas fixado pela comissão de reconhecimento de graus e diplomas estrangeiros
- O Reconhecimento Automático é um procedimento mais simplificado, mais célere, no entanto, ainda, não é aplicado a todos os países e a todos os graus.

- O Reconhecimento de Nível permite reconhecer por comparabilidade um grau ou diploma de ensino superior estrangeiro como tendo um nível correspondente a um grau académico ou diploma de ensino superior português (ex. licenciado).
