REPORT FROM THE COMMISSION

on the application in 2012 of Regulation (EC) No 1049/2001 regarding public access to European Parliament, Council and Commission documents

on the application in 2012 of Regulation (EC) No 1049/2001 regarding public access to European Parliament, Council and Commission documents

This report, drawn up pursuant to Article 17(1) of Regulation (EC) No 1049/2001 regarding public access to European Parliament, Council and Commission documents¹, covers the year 2012 and is based on statistical data which are summarised in the annex.

These statistics reflect the number of applications and not the number of documents requested. In practice, applications may cover a single document as well as entire files concerning a specific procedure containing thousands of documents. Applications for access to documents which were already publicly accessible at the time of the request, are not included.

In 83% of cases at the initial stage the requested documents were disclosed. At the confirmatory stage, either full or partial access was granted in 43% of cases.

1. Registers and Internet Sites

1.1. In 2012, 17,940 new documents were added to the register of Commission documents (see annex – table 1).

1.2. According to Article 17 (1) of Regulation 1049/2001 the Commission has to provide in its annual reports the number of documents in its possession which are “sensitive” in the meaning of Article 9(1) of the Regulation² and have therefore not been recorded in the register. In 2012, the Commission's public register covered the following documents: COM, SEC, C, JOIN, SWD OJ, and PV series. No sensitive documents were created or received by the Commission in 2012, that would fall within one of these categories of documents.

1.3. The table below shows the statistics for 2012 on consultation of the Openness and Access to Documents website on EUROPA.

	Number of visitors	Number of sessions	Pages viewed
Total	33.903	40.605	213.244
Monthly average	2.825	3.384	17.770

² "Documents originating from the institutions or the agencies established by them, from Member States, third countries or International Organisations, classified as "TRÈS SECRET/TOP SECRET", "SECRET" or "CONFIDENTIEL" in accordance with the rules of the institution concerned, which protect essential interests of the European Union or of one or more of its Member States in the areas covered by Article 4(1) (a), notably public security, defence and military matters" (Article 9(1)).

2. Cooperation with the other Institutions subject to the Regulation

The inter-institutional committee set up pursuant to Art. 15(2) of the Regulation did not meet at political level during the year 2012. However, the three institutions (European Parliament, Council and Commission) held regular meetings at administrative level with a view to share experience, develop best practices and ensure a consistent application of the Regulation.

3. Analysis of Access Applications

3.1. In 2012, the flow of access requests at the initial stage decreased in number of applications (6014 in 2012 in comparison with 6447 in 2011). The number of replies based on Regulation 1049/2001 was 5274 in 2012 in comparison with 6055 in 2011.

3.2. As regards the confirmatory stage, the number of the applications received significantly increased by almost 39 % (229 new confirmatory applications in 2012 against 165 in 2011). The total number of responses to confirmatory applications corresponded to the number of applications received (202 cases closed in 2012 in comparison with 162 in 2011). Among those, 160 replies (79 %) have been confirmatory decisions on access to documents under Regulation 1049/2001. Their number increased in 2012 by 11% in comparison with 2011 where 144 such decisions were issued. (See annex – table 5)

3.3. In 2012, the Commission Secretariat General and Directorate-General for Health and Consumers received the highest number of initial requests (12.10% and 7.28% respectively), very closely followed by the Directorate-General for Competition with 6.81% of initial applications and the Directorate-General Environment with 6.61%. It is worth noting that the interest in obtaining documents from Directorate-General for Taxation and Customs Union (which ranked first in 2011) has decreased, whereas the demand for documents and files held by the Directorate-General for Competition remained at a high level.

3.4. The academic world proved once again to be the most active category of applicants, accounting for 22.70% of initial applications (as opposed to 25.73% in 2011). Like in the previous years, it was followed by law firms with 13.58% (as opposed to 11.30% in 2011) and civil society (NGO's, interest groups) with 10.32% (as opposed to 8.59% in 2011) of the total number of applications. For 33,83% of the applications, the socio-professional profile of the applicants is undefined. (See annex – table 8)

3.5. The geographical breakdown of initial applications also shows great similarities with previous years, with a slight increase with regard to the ever largest proportion of applications coming from Belgium (21.85%). As opposed to 2011, there was a significant decrease in applications from Italy (12.37% in 2011 to 7.54% in 2012). With the exception of Germany (14.04%) and the United Kingdom (10.17%) none of the Member States, exceeded 10% of applications, the largest numbers coming from highly-populated Member States such as: France, Spain and Poland. The shares of applications from EU-10 and EU-2 Member States are still slightly below the corresponding share originating from EU-15 Member States. (See annex – table 9).

4. Application of Exceptions to the Right of Access

- 4.1. In 2012, the proportion of applications that were fully refused in the first instance slightly increased as opposed to the previous year (16.91% in 2012 against 12.18% in 2011). Full disclosure, has been given in almost three out of every four cases (74.48% against 80.20% in 2011) whereas the percentage of partially disclosed documents slightly increased in comparison to the previous years to reach 8.61 % (in comparison with 7.62 % in 2011). (See annex – table 3)
- 4.2. The number of cases where, following a confirmatory application, the Commission reversed the position taken by its services by fully disclosing previously refused documents, slightly increased (18.75% against 14.58% in 2011). In addition, there was a increase in cases where a refusal was fully confirmed and a significant decrease in the number of cases where wider access was granted following a confirmatory application. (See annex – table 6)
- 4.3. The percentage of cases where the protection of the Commission's decision-making process (Article 4(3)) was invoked as ground for refusal slightly diminished in comparison with the previous year (25.15% against 25.73% in 2011). It nevertheless comes second on the list of most frequently invoked exceptions, just behind the exception aimed at protecting of the purpose of inspections, investigations and audits (third indent of Article 4(2)), which accounted for 25.32% of cases (against 21.90 in 2011). (See annex – table 7)
- 4.4. The refusal rate based on the protection of commercial interests remained fairly stable (16.94% against 16.83% in 2011). On the orther hand, the number of cases where the protection of international relations was invoked decreased significantly (3.58% against 12.02% in 2011). (See annex – table 7)
- 4.5. The most frequently invoked ground for confirming a refusal of access was, as in the previous years, the protection of the purpose of investigations (third indent of Article 4(2)), (45,10% compared with 32.68% in 2011). (See annex – table 7)
 - The protection of the Commission's decision-making process, was invoked in 15.69% of cases (which evidences a decrease as opposed to 2011). The said tendency concerns however only the cases where the decision-making process was on-going (6.54% against 15.33% in the previous year). It has to be noted that there was an increase of cases concerning opinions for internal use, where the decision had already been taken (9.15 % in comparison with 4% in 2011).
 - A decrease is to be noted as regards the protection of privacy and integrity of individuals (10.46% against 20.67% in 2011). On the other hand, the protection of commercial interests was invoked almost as frequently as in the previous year (11.76% compared with 14.66% in 2011). As regards the exception based on the protection of court proceedings and legal advice, there was a very significant increase from 1.33% in 2011 to 7.84% in 2012.

5. Complaints to the European Ombudsman

5.1. In 2012 the Ombudsman closed the following 18 complaints against the Commission's handling of requests for access to documents:

5.2. In the course of the year the Ombudsman opened 20 new inquiries where access to documents was either the main or a subsidiary part of the complaint.

6. Judicial Review

6.1. The Court of Justice handed down three important judgments on appeal in the *Agrofert*⁴ and *Editions Odile Jacob*⁵ cases as well as in the *IFAW*⁶ case. The first two judgments concern competition policy whereas in the latter the Court gave an interpretation of the assessment of objections raised by Member State to disclosure of documents originating from them.

The Court of Justice issued two orders rejecting the application in cases C-208/11P (unfounded) and C-554/11P (inadmissible), both brought by Internationaler Hilfsfonds against the Commission.

7. Conclusions

After nine years of a steady increase, from 500 to around 6.500, the number of access requests remained stable in 2010 and 2011 and has now come down to 6.000. The Commission remains by far the institution handling the largest number of requests for access to documents.

On the other hand, the number of confirmatory applications has increased. Applicants are better aware of their legal rights to appeal the initial decision taken by the Commission.

All this could suggest that the Commission has reached, via various means and forums, including access to documents, a stable and well-known transparency framework.

Building on what was already achieved in 2011, active transparency with regard to the legislative activity of the Commission was further enhanced in 2012. As a consequence, a significant amount of initial requests for access and almost all confirmatory applications concern the Commission's activities in the field of monitoring the application of EU law, including in particular the implementation of competition policy. When handling such requests, the Commission has to strike the right balance between ensuring the transparency of its activities and preserving its ability to properly carry out the tasks conferred upon it by the Treaties.
